

Swine Flu Phone Advisory Sent to MCC Faculty and Students on May 5

Please listen to this important message from Manatee Community College. At present, no cases of swine flu have been reported at MCC, and no cases have been confirmed in our counties, but in an abundance of caution MCC has activated Disease Prevention and Control procedures. The College is continuing its regular academic schedule and activities, including exams and graduation, while we closely monitor the situation. Any changes will be announced through our emergency notification system. In the meantime, please take common-sense precautions. If you have flu-like symptoms, stay home and seek medical care. Check your e-mail and the MCC Web site at mccfl.edu for updated advisories and more instructions for students and employees. Thank you for your attention to this important matter.
